"A TREATISE OF BILLS OF EXCHANGE AND PROMISSORY NOTES. By Issac Edwards, Counselor-st-Law. Banks, Goald & Co. The materials of this work being based on the decisions of our own courts, does not come into competition with any English work on the subject; nor can it be deemed a rival of anything which has yet appeared in this country. The object has been to ascettain the law and state it in brief terms with the reasen on which it is founded. Estimating the importance of the subject with riference to the amount of property adoat in the shape of bills and notes, there never has been a time when it called for greater accuracy and discrimination than now, or invited the attention of merchants and professional men with equal surgency." [N. Y. Journal of Commerce, Oct 24 1867.

"A TREATISE ON BILLS OF EXCHANGE AND PROMISSORY NOTES. By Isanc Edwards, Counselorat-Law. New York: Banks, Goold & Co. As the latest decision is deemed the highest authority in legal matters, the latest treatise or digrest of cares on any branch of the law must be of the greatest value to practitioners, provided, of corne, that it be faithfully compiled and judicously stranged. These requirements being met by the volume before us we may justly recommend Mr. Edwards, for testise to the gentlemen of the bar. It is presuminary an American law book, iscorporating the substance of nearly we thousand American decisions with the synthesis of having a provided to the substance of nearly we the substance of the state in which the commercial law is not adopted. By way of appendix, a translation is given of that part of the Commercial Code of France relating to bills of exchange and promissory notes. The index is very minute, and enables the reader to find in a moment what the law is on any point of the subject. The work is primarily adapted to the use of lawyers, but it will be scarcely less useful to merchants and bankers."

N. Y. Commercial advertiser, Oct. 27, 1857.

"A TREATISE ON BILLS OF E

this subject already outnumber those of the English reports, and laving reference to many points not touched upon in the English books.

"Nor is it merely to the law as exhibited in the adjudged cases that Mr. Edwards confines himself. With a view to give his book a greater practical utility, he has embodied in it the statute provisions of the various States, which from the difficulty of getting access to a complete series of the statutes of the States, will prove a great convenience. Not only is a collection of State statutes not to be looked for in any private library, there are only two or three public libraries in this country which contain anything at all complete. Our New York Law Library is wretchedly deficient on this score.

"The bulk to which the law on the subject of negotiable paper has expanded itself is apparent from the size of this work, which without any undue prolisity, extends itself to nearly eight hundred pages. The last chapter gives that title of the commercial code of France which relates to exchange and promissory notes."
